WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT

Employees are a company's number one resource. Invest in your people with a Workforce Development plan. Whether you are looking to evaluate your team as a whole or a possible new employee, the American Injection Molding Institute can help design a development plan to jump-start their training. The AIM Institute currently offers evaluations for Engineering & Design, Injection Molding Processors, and Autodesk® Moldflow® Analysts.

PRE-EMPLOYMENT EVALUATIONS

Good talent is hard to find. You are looking for a candidate with the ideal mix of worth ethic, personality, cultural fit, and technical knowledge. We want to help you measure a potential candidate's level of comprehension of the plastics injection molding industry so that you can make informed hiring decisions. The AIM Institute is now offering Pre-Employment Evaluations for employers looking to measure an interviewee's knowledge of the injection molding industry.

WORKFORCE EVALUATIONS

When utilizing this service, the AIM Institute can help identify the knowledge gaps within your workforce and collaborate with you to develop an effective education and training plan for your employees. This focused effort will result in your team being more knowledgeable and productive employees with improved critical thinking skills.
